Page to Deliver State of the County Address

Durham, N.C. – Michael D. Page, chairman of the Durham Board of County Commissioners (BOCC), will deliver the annual State of the County Address on Thursday, March 12. Chairman Page, giving his first-ever State of the County Address, will focus on the County's achievements during the past year, challenges facing the County and how the BOCC will address its priorities in the coming year.

The address will begin at 7p.m., prior to the BOCC's Regular Session, in the Commissioners' Chambers located at 200 East Main Street. The address is free and open to the public. The address will be broadcast live on Time Warner's channel 8 and the County's main website at www.durhamcountync.gov.

For more information about the State of the County Speech, contact Vonda Sessoms, clerk to the Durham Board of County Commissioners, at (919) 560-0025 or via email at vsessoms@durhamcountync.gov.
